How to learn Spanish in 70 hours

This year your child will be taking Spanish Class for 160 days, 26 minutes a day. In hours we are talking about 70 hours for the school year. This with no counting fieldtrips, assemblies, days absents, and other many situations that will take students from Spanish Class for a day. Talking in real life is impossible for your child to become bilingual with only 26 minutes a day or in 70 hours of a foreign language in one school year with no practice or support after he or she cross the classroom door. The same way that your child will not became a Leonardo da Vinci in our art class, or a Beethoven in our music class, or a Michael Phelps in our Physical Education class, our Spanish Class only will get your child the necessary tools to become more efficient in the future. In our short amount of time, your child will learn the vocabulary and grammar structures to put it in practice when a real life situation happens to in the future. I am happy to see most of my students going directly to Spanish II or even Spanish III in High School. With your help and support and home maybe we can see some improvement and success by the end of the year.

WELCOME to EDMODO.com!

In my effort to bring more technology to my classroom I found and start using EDMODO.com with my Middle School classes. Edmodo utilizes a design similar to Facebook, and provides me and my students a secure place to connect, collaborate and share content. In Edmodo I am also able to post grades, assignments and quizzes to my students. Students can submit homework and view their grades and any comments that I may have posted about their assignment. I can also create polls and post topics for discussion among the students. I can differentiate and individualize learning through the creation of sub-groups within a course. After each course is completed, I will close out the network and create a new one for the next year.

Groups are private sections in Edmodo created by the teacher to be able to communicate with just that class. You have to have a code to get into the group. In an attempt to prevent outsiders from joining school networks, Edmodo provides special codes to schools and classes. These codes are given to students and are necessary to join groups. There are codes for the parents to go and see what is going on in our class. Ask your child for your code or simply email me for your code.
